Fuel program set

The Virginia Department of Social Services said recently that applications for the fuel assistance program will be taken by local departments of welfare/social services beginning Nov. 1, 1982.

This program is not intended to cover an annual fuel need or the fuel need during the heating seaosn. It is only designed to assist households in their fuel needs.

Anyone wishing information about the program can call the Virginia Department of Social Service,s toll-free, at 1-800-552-3431 during normal business hours.

Households applying for the program will need to verify income with wage stubs, award letter of they receive social security, or income tax returns if they are self-employed or seasonal workers.

Maximum income limits will vary according to geographic locations in Virginia. Three different standards will be used:

Metropolitan Washington- one person-$5,850; four perons - $13,950.

Other Metropolitan Areas: one person, $5,850 and four persons, $13,176. Rural Areas- one person, $5,850 and four persons, $12,366.

Households will also need to verify cash resources such as savings accounts, checking accounts and other specific resources with recent bank statements or deposit books.

Limits for cash resources are:

$1,500 for households with no members who are aged 60 or disabled.

$3,000 for households that include a person over 60 or disabled.

A number of factors will be used in determining a household's fuel needs. These include the household's:

- geographic locations in Virginia
- size (number of persons)
- total income
- energy source (kerosene, fuel oil, electricity, wood, gas or coal.)

Persons living in subsidized housing are not eligible for the fuel program.

Only one application will be needed for the program this year under most circumstances. Once a household is determined eligible, it is provided with a notice that shows the maximum fuel assistance it can receive.

Fuel bills are submitted to the local welfare/social services agency until the total amount of the household's fuel benefit has been used or the heating season is over.

Fuel payments will be made, in most instances, directly to the vendor.

Eligible persons may also receive assistance with repair or replacement or unsafe or unoperable heating equipment under the fuel program.

Applications for the program will be processed within 30 days. In emergencies, when a household runs out of fuel or receives a cut off notice, applications will be expedited.

The fuel program will end March 31, 1983, or earlier if all funds are exhausted.

For more information, please contact Helen Gutridge, Office of Communications at (804) 281-9204 or Mary Walker, Fuel Supervisor, Appomattox Depoartment of Social Services - 352-7125.
